The proposed Christchurch Replacement District Plan

More housing in Linwood?

What is proposed?

The area shown in green with a light green border on the map overleaf is proposed for rezoning to residential medium density.

Smaller section sizes and townhouse, multi-unit or apartment style developments are allowed in this zone. This will enable more households in the area and a greater choice of housing options - for families, couples and single people.

This may be a more efficient way for us to use our urban land. New households can take advantage of existing schools and transport links and have access to shops and commercial services not always available immediately in new developments. This will help our existing commercial centres to be vibrant and economically healthy.

What's possible in the new residential medium density zone?

- Two storey buildings within a height limit of eight metres (including a pitched roof)
- Smaller sections can be created
- More of each section can be built on
- Buildings can be higher closer to the boundary with neighbours
- Buildings can be closer to the front boundary
- Fewer car parks are needed and not all properties will require garage space
- Design controls will help to ensure neighbourhood character is maintained

What does this mean for your property?

For more details turn over or you can speak to a district plan review planner.

Changing the zoning may not result in any significant change for many years. It creates options, but it doesn't mean that people have to use these options when they build on a site.

Additional areas proposed for residential medium density zoning

-  Additional new areas proposed for residential medium density – allows for smaller section sizes and houses built up to two storeys.
-  Residential medium density*
-  Residential suburban density transition – allows for smaller section sizes
-  Residential suburban – generally one house per original section
-  Key activity centre – Linwood

Why do we need to change?

We need to plan for future growth in Christchurch.

The Government-appointed Independent Hearings Panel wants to create the potential for 23,700 more dwellings by 2028 and considers that the Council's original proposal (notified in August 2014) didn't provide sufficient growth potential. It has directed the Council to notify larger parts of Hornby, Linwood and Papanui than originally proposed for residential medium density so that possible rezoning can be tested through the submission and hearings process.

The panel has directed the Council to include in its proposal areas of Hornby, Linwood and Papanui that are within easy walking distance of a bus route, a key activity centre or larger suburban commercial centre, a park or public open space and public primary or intermediate schools.

Your input

We encourage you to find out what is proposed and how you might be affected.

It is important for the Independent Hearings Panel to know whether you support or oppose the proposal. You can do this by making a submission using the submission form included with this letter and information sheet, submitting online at proposeddistrictplan.ccc.govt.nz or by getting a hard copy of the submission form from any Council service centre or library.

Submissions on this proposal close on Tuesday 22 March 2016. Further submissions (submissions on submissions) are open from 21 April to 6 May 2016.
